General Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise noted.

Purpose of form.—Form 8279 is used by a corporation to make the election to be treated as a foreign sales corporation (FSC) or as a small FSC.

Once the election is made, it remains in effect until terminated or revoked. The election applies to each shareholder who owns stock in the corporation while the election is in effect.

Who may elect.—A corporation may make the election if it meets all of the following tests:

- It is a corporation created or organized under the laws of any qualifying foreign country or a U.S. possession (other than Puerto Rico). The foreign country must meet the requirements of section 927(e)(3).
- It does not have more than 25 shareholders.
- It does not have preferred stock.
- It maintains an office in a qualifying foreign country or U.S. possession (other than Puerto Rico) and maintains a set of permanent books of account (including invoices) for the corporation at that office. It must also maintain books and records that sufficiently establish the amount of gross income, deductions, credits, or other matters required to be shown on the FSC's (or small FSC's) income tax return, at a location in the United States as required by section 6001.
- It has at least one director who is not a resident of the United States.
- It is not a member of a controlled group of corporations that has a domestic international sales corporation (DISC) as a member.
- Its tax year is the tax year of the principal shareholder (or group of shareholders with the same tax year) with the highest percentage of voting power or, if two or more shareholders (or groups) hold the same highest percentage of voting power, it is the tax year of any such shareholder (or group). See section 441(h).

IRS consent is not necessary if the electing corporation has to change its tax year to conform to the tax year of the principal shareholder. However, IRS consent may be required for a tax year change by the principal shareholder or a subsequent change by the corporation to meet the tax year requirement of section 441(h). See section 442 and the regulations under sections 441, 442, and 921.

8. Each person who is a shareholder on the first day of the first tax year for which the election is effective consents to the corporation's FSC (or small FSC) election.

After a valid election is made, the corporation must meet tests 2 through 7 above for its entire tax year to qualify as a FSC (or small FSC) for the tax year. See sections 922 through 927 for additional information.

Where to file.—File Form 8279 with the Internal Revenue Service Center, Philadelphia, PA 19255.

When to file.—A corporation generally files the FSC or small FSC election during the 90-day period immediately preceding the beginning of the corporation's tax year. However, for the corporation's first tax year, the election is made at any time during the 90-day period after the beginning of the tax year. An election may be terminated by revocation after the first tax year for which the election is effective. A revocation made during the first 90-day period of the tax year is effective for the tax year in which it is made and all subsequent tax years. If the revocation is made after the 90-day period, it is effective for all tax years following the one in which the revocation was made. For details, see Regulations section 1.927(f)-1(b).

Specific Instructions

Address in the United States.—Enter the address where the books and records required under section 6001 are maintained. Include the suite, room, or other unit number after the street address. If the Post Office does not deliver mail to the street address and the corporation has a P.O. box, show the box number instead of the street address.

Address outside the United States.—Enter the address where the permanent books of account are maintained.

Item A. Employer identification number (EIN).—Show the corporation's correct EIN. If the corporation does not have an EIN, it should apply for one on Form SS-4, Application for Employer Identification Number. Form SS-4 can be obtained at most IRS or Social Security Administration (SSA) offices. If the corporation has not received its EIN by the time the election is due, write "Applied for" in the space for the EIN.

Item B. Principal business classifications.—See the last page of the instructions for Forms 1120 and 1120-A or Form 1120-FSC for what to enter in item B, lines 1, 2, and 3.

Column J. Shareholders' consent statement.—An election to be a FSC (or a small FSC) is valid only if all persons who are shareholders on the first day the election goes into effect sign the consent statement in column J and provide the other information requested in columns I, K, and L of Form 8279 or sign a separate consent statement as described below. When stock of the corporation is owned by a husband and wife as community property (or the income from that stock is community property), both husband and wife must sign the consent. Each tenant in common, joint tenant, and tenant by the entirety must sign the consent for each person who has a community interest in the stock or in the income from the stock. A legal guardian must sign for a minor. However, if a legal guardian has not been appointed, the natural guardian must sign.

The executor or administrator must sign for an estate, and the trustee must sign for a trust. If the estate or trust has more than one executor, administrator, or trustee, any such person who is authorized to file the return of the estate or trust may sign the consent. An officer of a corporation who is authorized to sign the corporation's tax return must sign the consent.

Separate consent statement.—Any shareholder who does not sign the consent statement in column J of Form 8279 must sign a separate consent statement for the election to be valid. The statement must read: "I, (shareholder's name), a shareholder of (corporation's name), consent to the election of (corporation's name) to be treated as a FSC (or small FSC) under section 927(f)(1) of the Internal Revenue Code. The consent made by me is irrevocable and is binding upon all transferees of my stock in (corporation's name)."

In addition, the statement must show the name, address, and identifying number of the corporation and for every shareholder the information requested for columns I, K, and L of Form 8279. For transferred stock, also show the name and address of the person who held the shares at the beginning of the tax year and the number of shares to which this consent applies.

Extension of time to file Form 8279 or shareholders' consent statements.—The corporation may request an extension of time to file Form 8279 or the shareholders' consent statements. Under Regulations section 301.9100-1, the corporation may submit a ruling request to file Form 8279 after the 90-day period (see When to file above) and the procedures of section 5 of Rev. Proc. 92-85, 1992-2 C.B. 490. The ruling request is subject to payment of a user fee; see Rev. Proc. 96-1 (or its successor), 1996-1 I.R.B. 8. In general, the filing will be considered as timely filed under Regulations section 301.9100-1 provided the corporation establishes that in failing to file Form 8279 timely it acted reasonably and in good faith, and that granting the extension will not prejudice the interests of the Government. The corporation may also request, under the same procedure, an extension to file shareholder consent statements if the corporation previously filed a Form 8279 that would have been valid if (a) all of the shareholder consent statements had been filed with the form, or (b) a shareholder who received transferred shares failed to file a consent statement within the required 90-day period.

Transfers of stock after Form 8279 is filed.—If shares of the corporation's stock are transferred before or during the first tax year the election is to take effect but the transferor has not filed a consent statement, the recipient of the transferred shares may consent to the election by filing a separate consent statement (see instructions above for the required format) in 90 days after the beginning of the tax year the election is to take effect. If the recipient does not file the consent within the 90-day period, an extension of time to file the consent may be granted by the IRS. See Extension of time to file Form 8279 or shareholders' consent statements above. If the transfer occurs more than 90 days after the beginning of the tax year the election is to take effect, an extension of time to file the consent may be granted by the IRS if it is determined that an extension of time to file would have been granted to the transferor if the transfer had not occurred.

If shares of the corporation's stock are transferred before the beginning of the tax year the election is to take effect, and the transferor filed a consent statement, the recipient of the transferred shares must consent to the election for the election to be valid. The consent must be filed within 90 days after the beginning of the tax year the election is to take effect. If the recipient does not file the consent in the 90-day period, an extension of time to file the consent may be granted by the IRS. See Extension of time to file Form 8279 or shareholders' consent statements above.

Column L. Shareholder's identifying number.—The identifying number for an individual is the social security number. For all others, it is their employer identification number.

Supplemental Form 8279.—If the corporation issues more stock or the ownership of its stock changes after the election is filed but before the beginning of the tax year for which the election is made, the corporation must file a supplemental Form 8279, and write "SUPPLEMENTAL" across the top of the form. The supplemental form must be filed in the first 90 days of the tax year the election takes effect.

Complete columns I through L of the supplemental form only for shareholders acquiring additional stock and new shareholders. Each additional or new shareholder must consent to this election for the supplemental Form 8279 to be valid. Attach a copy of the Form 8279 filed.

Signature.—Form 8279 must be signed by the president, vice president, treasurer, assistant treasurer, chief accounting officer, or other officer (such as tax officer) who is authorized to sign for the corporation.
